One o'clock p. m. The board met pursuant to adjournment, members all present. The Board was called to order by the chairman.

The committee on change of the new road ran from Norwood to Camden, petitioned for 2 handbills: Minority report in favor & majority report against, both reports were accepted and committee discharged.

The remonstrances were presented against granting the prayer of the petitioners for the said location of the new road. Upon motion of Comm'r. Kugler the prayer of the petitioners was rejected with the following votes: in favor of rejecting, voted comm's. G. Kugler, Truwe and H. Paulson; against Comm'r. E. B. Harrison.

The committee on change of the Chaska and Excelsior road petitioned for by A. T. Klemens, others reported in favor of granting the prayer of the petitioners; on motion the report was accepted and committee discharged. A remonstrance agains said petition was also presented, but it did not appear that the damages were greater than the benefits derived from the said change, therefore, Resolved—that the prayer of the petitioners be and is hereby granted, and that the order establishing the said change be recorded. The damages assessed are as follows: To Wm. Saver $50.00, to Mich. Levy

Regular terms of Probate Court, every FIRST and THIRD Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each month.

JULIUS SCHALER, Judge.

The Democratic friends of Ex State Senator Achibald, of Dundas, Rice County, are urging his claims for Congress in this district. He is a young man of good qualifications.

Either Dr. Ames or W. W. McNair, will be the Democratic nominee in the fourth district, and will give W. D. Washburn a close run.

Gen. Chalmers, of Ft. Pillow, scarce memory, is running as an independent candidate for Congress in Mississippi, and strange to say is supported by the republicans of that district. Oh! consistency thou art a jewel.

The Fifth District.

It now looks as though Knute Nelson would be elected in the fifth district by a large majority. The great body of his party seem to be turning to him as the regular candidate, and as there is no chance of the election of a Democrat in that district, the fight, although so fiercely begun, will undoubtedly become tame before election.

Maj. Strait.

We learn that Congressman Strait returned home last week in good health and spirits, after his protracted labors at Washington.

Maj. Strait has, by his able and faithful services in Congress, maintained the high position he has heretofore occupied as a member of that body. He is entitled to the honor his party awarded him in giving him the unanimous nomination at the Glencoe convention.

Prohibition.

The temperance movement, so called, is becoming a matter of considerable importance to politicians.

The success of the prohibitionists in Iowa has encouraged the friends of prohibition throughout the entire country to make an active and aggressive campaign this fall. The possibility of a success of the temperance party will attract to its banner many political adventurers and others whose way to office has not seemed very clear through either of the old parties.

The life of this new party will, however, be short, and will accomplish but little more than an alarm and shake up the two old parties, between whom it will soon be torn to pieces.

Zoar Meditations.

Anton Keller is building an addition to his granary, in which to put machinery &c., 26x10 one way, and 31x10 the other way.

Lorenz Weber, Jr., has built himself a neat frame house, on his fathers land, adjoining timber land opposite the road.

Mrs. Anna Heimcke, of Red Wing, daughter of Paulus Bier, is expected home, on a visit next month.

There will be a new picket fence put up in front of Moravian Church shortly; the old one is very poor.

The Rev. Mr. Sondermann's anniversary sermon, at Laketown, on 6th inst., at the Missionary Celebration, was not only practical and intensely interesting, but also very earnest and eloquent in its delivery.

Our people have been very much put out at the dead lock in the usual running of the mails between Chaska and Watertown. Let it be righted.

What the public school in Bierlein's district needs—a five month term, and more interest taken in educational matters by the people.

Our farmers are far advanced with the harvest. They will finish cutting this week, and many will also commence stacking. The crop is considered a good one.

Rev. Herm. Gerdsen spent a few days last week with friends in town. He is a successful fisher.

It is a girl, a real live little lassie, over which are great rejoicings by the parents. Andrew eats, drinks and makes merry with his friends and feels himself happy.

Mr. J. C. Henderson and wife took in Minnetonka on Wednesday.

A half dozen or more Bachelors of Arts and Sciences from the State University are rustication on the shores and upon the waters of our lake.

Alexander Mueller is putting down his sidewalk, Good. Niehaus says Andrew frightened him. Ha! ha!

The excursion of All Saints Parish of Minneapolis on Thursday was a success.

Rev. Cole and family, together with about one hundred and twenty of their parishioners, arrived about 10:30 a. m.

The steamer, sail boats, and about 20 row boats were placed at their disposal, and apparently appreciated, for after returning from the lake a vote was tendered the citizens of Waconia for their hospitality, and was responded to by hearty Yea's.

If you want practical scriptural translations call on Mr. Brill.

Don't forget that we have a No. 1 watchmaker in town, who is ready to do his work on his line.

Case McPheters vs. Town of Watertown before Justice Whithill dismissed.

Plainiff failing to give sufficient security for costs. Right, Mr. Justice.

Carl Schmidt is as regular as clock work in his position as postillion. We could not have a better one.

H. R. Volkemont has the neatest piece of sidewalk in town.

What is the master with our business! Within four weeks the new crop will begin to move, and no steps taken as yet to increase our warehouse facilities.

If our older business men won't do anything, let them stand back and give the young ones a chance.

Mr. Mix and daughter attended the funeral on Sunday.

There was a drunken row in town on Sunday evening, which was a disgrace to our village and to those who participated.

Quite a number of persons, drunken ones, committed public nuisances on our streets on Sunday. After this we will give names and places. Our village should have an ordinance for such cases.

D. Schaefer has raised, roofed, sided and painted his blacksmith shop, and improved the looks of his property 100 per cent. Braun, the wagon maker should likewise.

Invitations are out for the marriage of one of our fairest maidens to a worthy young man of this town. Names will be mentioned after Sept. 25.

Eugene Zahler, one of our very best farmers finished his harvest Friday evening.

He cut 65 acres in five days with only one span of horses. He had the Marsh and is highly pleased.

Saturday night found two thirds of the grain in shock in Waconia township.

The Russian white oats are successfully ripened.

The news of Lillie's death cast a gloom over our village, where he had so many friends. It is sad to think that we shall never more have the pleasure of returning the warm handshake and hearing welcome which he always extended to his friends. The Herald has lost its best muscle and not a small part of us should be hard to fill after so many years of patient toil at the case.

The Funeral of A. L. DuToit.

The largest funeral procession ever seen in Chaska followed the remains of the late A. L. DuToit, and of the heavier loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him.Resolved, that it is a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say, that in regretting his removal from our midst, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard.Resolved that we sincerely condone with the family of the deceased the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, and commend them to God, and charge him who orders all things for the best, and whose chastisements are meant in mercy.Resolved that this heartfelt testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to the afflicted family of our departed friend, by

DIED.

At the residence of W. C. Odell, Chaska, on Friday, August 11, at 4 o'clock a. m. At the age of 72 years, of Hemorrhage of the stomach, aged 72 years.A. L. DuToit, whose sudden death occurred on last Friday morning, died at the early age of thirty-three years of hemorrhage of the stomach, after an illness of only a few hours.Mr. DuToit was born on the 4th of July 1840, at Harrisville, in the State of New York, and removed to this place with his parents in 1856, where he has since resided, except for a short time in 1861 and 1862, when he was with the late Dr. Wakefield at the upper Sioux agency, in this state, just prior to the Indian outbreak. Since the year 1866 he has been one of the editors and publishers of the Valley Herald.A brief report giving some idea of the work and purpose of the Society was read after which a collection was taken up.A basket-dinner provided by the Society with the kind assistance of the congregation, for the entertainment of all present, came next in order. This important feature of the day occupied several hours, the table being filled some four or five times.In the afternoon two addresses were made, one in the German language by Mr. Herman Gerden, in which he gave a very interesting account of the early commencement of missions by the Moravian or United Brethren's Church on the island of St. Thomas one hundred and fifty years ago.The other address was delivered in the English language by the pastor in which he very eloquently advocated the cause of the Y. P. M.
S. at this place. At the close of this meeting another collection was taken up, thereby enabling all those to contribute who had perhaps not done so before.Now a little something about the Society itself. About the close of the year 1880, Mr. David Smith who was for two years president of the Young Men's Missionary Society at Bethlehem, Pa., agitated the subject of forming a Missionary society among the young people of this congregation, which resulted in the organization of the same in the beginning of the following year.Having faithfully fulfilled his duties as president for one year he resigned his office and was successfully succeeded by Mr. Theodore Smith who "filled the chair" until his change of residence rendered it impossible for him to attend the meetings when Miss Bertie Smith was elected in his place. On the 4th of July, the Society was enabled to increase the funds in the treasury by a sort of refreshment bazaar, which was kindly gotten up and attended to by Mr. Theodore Smith, the new president, and the funds amounted to $10.20.The membership of the Society is quite encouraging, consisting at the present time of 42 active and 12 honorary members, but there is plenty of room for more.In the first year of the Society's existence about fifty dollars were donated for various missionary purposes; as far as we have in the present year $15.00 have been appropriated while $9.50 still remain in the treasury, besides the collection of last Sunday.

In Memoriam.

At a regular meeting of Chaska Hook & Ladder Company No 1, held August 12th A. D. 1882, the following Pre-amble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted. Whereas in view of the loss we have sustained by the decease of our friend, A. L. DuToit, and of the heavier loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him, we Resolved to contribute a sum of $100.00 to the fund for the relief of the widow and family of A. L. DuToit.

Divorce Suit.

Mary May, wife of Samuel Moy, of Wauconia, well known throughout the State, has commenced an action to secure a divorce from her husband. The complaint is lengthy and specific and charges him with being a habitual drunkard since 1877."Cruel and unmanly" conduct is also charged. We understand he indignantly denies the "drunkard" part of the complaint, but is willing to allow her a divorce and grant her two thirds of his property so that she may have a home.Resolved that we sincerely condone with the family of the deceased
the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to
afflict them, and commend them to God, and charge him who orders
all things for the best, and whose
chastisements are meant in mercy.Resolved that this heartfelt testi-
row be forwarded to the afflicted
family of our departed friend, by the secretary of this Company and Democratic Convention.

The Democratic Convention for the nomination of nine delegates to the National Convention to be held at Chicago, Ill., on the 21st of August 1882, at Glencoe, Ill., will be held at Waconia, Carver County, on the 22nd of August at 11 A. M.

The proposed representation for the several states is one delegate for every 20 democratic votes cast for the party.

CHARLES WARNER,
Chairman Co. Committee.

SENATOR Ben. Hill, of Georgia, died at his home in Augusta last Thursday.

He was one of the ablest members of the Senate and his death is greatly deplored.

W. C. RUSSELL, lately of the Duluth Land Office, will start a new paper in Lake City, his former home, in a short time. It will be called the Graphic.

H. O. Frank MacDonald, editor of the Cloud Times, declines to allow the use of his name in connection with the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 5th district.

Frank would make a big run, as he is exceedingly popular in that district. He is kindly remembered by his many old friends in this county.

We hear a little rumbling sound on the political surface in this county regarding the nominations for Senator and members of the Legislature. Aspirants are multiplying and we anticipate a lively canvass this fall. Both parties should see that the nominees are so distributed as to command the full vote of all sections of the county.

Care should also be exercised in the selection of candidates.

Democratic Co. Convention.

The call for the Democratic Co.

convention, to be held at Waconia, on Monday, Aug. 28, to elect 9 delegates to represent Carver County in the Congressional Convention to be held at Glencoe on Aug. 31, appears in this issue. Each town should see that they are properly represented. See call elsewhere.

Prohibition Convention.

The prohibition constitutional amendment agitation committee has issued a call for holding county and senatorial district conve-nctions in the interest of the temperance cause.

The convention for this county will meet at Carver on the 26th of September next. However, we don't believe it will amount to much in this county.

The Daily Globe.

We are pleased to learn that the St. Paul Daily Globe, the only Democratic daily in Minnesota, will enlarge its daily edition on or about Sept. 1, to an 8 page 7 column paper, making it double in size to the present edition. The management has also secured a special telegraph wire from Chicago, New York and Washington, which will place the Globe on a par with the metropolitan journals of New York or Chicago.

The management will accept subscriptions at old rates until September 1st, which is 60 cents per month.

Minneapolis Fair.

The grand Northwestern Exposition will be held at Minneapolis this year on September 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, and will be the grandest fair ever held in the State of Minnesota. Bill King has secured the greatest attractions in every department of the fair, ever exhibited in Minnesota. Carver County has always been well represented in this fair and owing to the good crops this year we expect the people will turn out in mass this time. President Arthur and Seauter Conkling are expected to be present. Bear the dates in mind and prepare yourselves for a grand time.

News of the State.

Ex-Cadet Whitaker has given up his studies by advice of his friends who think he is not helping his own cause before the public.

The British General Wolseley will have only 25,000 men to restore British supremacy in Egypt, but they will be well prepared.

The newsgapers are trying to solve the question why the east should have been burned up with heat this summer, while the west and even the southwest, should have enjoyed Canadian coolness.

The New York papers report that the oyster crop this year will be a large one, but that the quality will be very much better than last year, when oysters in general were poor, and good ones highly priced.

The hotel rates at Saratoga range from $7.50 to $10 per day, and about as much more is extracted from fashionable guests in the way of extras. The audacity of the hotel men surprised even the most struck for lower rates.

A good authority in Iowa reports that there need be no calculations for much cheaper merchantable corn this present, for at least five months. And as a consequence, there is little prospect of the depreciation of the price of pork and beef.

A Virginia editor, thoroughly disgusted with mock trials, suggests a law requiring the sheriff to conduct each trial at short range, and continuing the firing until a funeral result. Such a law might more effectually put a stop to the practice than existing statutes do. At any rate, it would put the legislature in the hands of pretended legislators who are, in the main, the supporters of the code.

The wheat crop of Minnesota and Dakota will be the greatest harvest ever garnered in the history of the state. The acreage is less than last year, but the productiveness increased, while of oats, barley and other crops both acreage and productiveness have largely increased. The rest of the country shows up equally well, with the exception, that the wheat crop of the entire country will amount to 700,000,000 bushels, and the corn crop to 1,500,000,000 bushels.

Nevada comes pretty near being a rotten borring, her representation in congress being cast aside. But she is "sovereign state," having two United States senators, one representative in congress, and a population of 62,000, which is something more than a third of a representative ratio. This is a shocking injustice to other states but it cannot well be helped. There is no way known to the law whereby she can be relegated to territorial condition from which she should not have emerged.

Powers & Weightman and Rosenberger & Co. of Philadelphia, are clamoring for the restoration of the tax on quinine. These gentlemen have become millionaires through their long monopoly of the quinine trade, and they continue to insist that the public should pay the fact that they declared they would have to shut up their factories in 1879, when the free quinine bill was passed. Before quinine was made free they extorted $3.40 an ounce for their product. Quinine has been reduced to $2.40, and it is the interest of the public that the price should be kept down.

The St. Louis Republican advises the farmers of Missouri, particularly those who make cattle-breeding a business, to hold back a portion of this year's crop to await the uncertainties of the following season. After Missouri farmers had sold off their crop of $800 at 50 cents a bushel, many of them in those districts where the drought of 1880 was most severe were compelled to buy out last winter for $30 and 75 cents a bushel to feed to their cattle. This was a costly business. It might have been avoided by laying aside a part of the good crop of 1880 for the emergency.

The most righteous labor strike of the year— that of the New York tailors—has come to grief, and they are returning to work at their old wages. There was much sympathy for the strikers, and the combined corporations, with Europe emptying laborers at Castle Garden wanting money and work, was too much for the workmen.

The tailors, though only successful strikers, for they carried their strike easy against freight shippers for a high advance in rates, and nobly threatened of denouncing such an act as a wicked combination and conspiracy.

There has been a gradual but a rapid decline in English agriculture during the last five years. The large landholders are becoming poorer, and thousands of the best tenants have been frightened away by depressing apprehensions. The purchase of stupendous areas of land in the dominion north of us by wealthy English companies, under the patronage of leading aristocrats and gentry, is a leading sign, and presents heavy apprehensions for the government of accomplished British farmers, whose removal from their old homes will be cheered by anticipations of plenty in the new. In fact, we may reasonably suppose that our own widespread and abounding country may continue to attract, in an increasing degree, the favor of the better classes of British farmers.

A convention last week of delegates from various northern sections of Minnesota and Dakota, it was resolved that it is practicable that by the building of about forty miles of canal with suitable locks and dams to utilize 340 miles of deep water, taken from the Mississippi for a period, and so to make a useful water way for crafts propelled by steam from the great lakes to the vast system of water routes in the valleys of the Assinaboina, the Saskatchewan and their tributaries, which reach so large a part of Minnesota, Dakota, Manitoba and the northwestern territory, and are the most highways of the continent. Speeches were made sustaining the above statements, and resolutions adopted urging the matter upon congress.

Shipbuilding is lively in Great Britain at present. The last pay of John Elder & Co., the largest shipbuilders, who have constructed the Arizona, Alaska and the fast Australian liners, amounted to $125,000.

Furey, depot quartermaster, Omaha, goes to Baltimore. Gen. G. E. Dandy, quartermaster at St. Louis, will probably be promoted to colonel. Col. J. C. Johnson, quartermaster at Atlanta, Ga., is making a strong effort to be transferred to the department of the Columbia instead of the department of the Mississippi.

About two o'clock, Wednesday morning, at his residence in Atlanta, Ga., Senator Hill was found to be rapidly sinking. His breathing was difficult. He continued to sleep, however, and a few hours after his death occurred without a struggle. He died from exhaustion. For several hours before Senator Hill's death, it was evident the end was near. Soon after daybreak his family were summoned to his deathbed, and there the following persons were present: Mrs. Hill, B. H. Hill, Jr., and wife, Dr. R. W. Hill, Mrs. Hill's maid, his son, Charles Hill, the nephews of the senator, and Dr. Wright, the attending surgeon. Four hours before Senator Hill died, he received a hypodermic injection of morphine, which was administered. He appeared to be asleep and unconscious several hours. At 11 A.M. he was apparently awake when he closed his eyes gently and died without any tremor. Friday, April 12, 1884, Senator Hill was buried in Georgia. He was a broad, well-set man, with a large high head whose intellectuality was strongly marked. Mr. Hill was a lawyer, a member of his profession, and a man of great energy. He was a member of the confederate senate, became a leader of the confederate senate, and participated in the formation of the confederate army.

The Democracy of Carver county assembled in Monday convention at Waconia, last Monday, and organized by calling Hon. J. F. Dilley to the chair, and electing A. Ed. Kae-

The temporary organization was continued as permanent, and the following delegates selected to represent Carver County in the Con-

Glencoe, Aug. 31, viz:

J. F. Dilley Julius Schuler,

Rev. Cole, who has been camping on the shores of our lake for some time, kindly consented to hold service in his camp on Sunday evening. Those who were notified appreciated it either for the novelty, or out of principle, for at the appointed time about 100 persons had gathered around him. The boots from all points came eastward, bearing eager listeners, notably from Scandinavia, one boat from there containing ten persons. The camp fires were kept burning brightly, and as the Rev. gentleman addressed the people, we heard some one remark that so it must have looked on Galilee over 1800 years ago, when the lowly Nazar-ean taught the people along its shores.

The gentleman made numerous good points, among which we remember a few. 1st, that the will lieve just whatever he pleased.

HE AND SHE

He sat in Honor's seat,
And rapidly his gaze into his eyes She stood without, beneath the wintry skies In snow and sleep.

He spoke of Faith's decay;
The ladies sighed because she spoke so true.
She hid her face in hands frost-numbed and She stole through his by shame and hunger heat.

With bleeding feet.
Upon his wedding day
She stood with burning eyes that fain would weep.

And heard the master's tread, the music's sweep Sound far away.

The bride, so pale and true,
He took himself in haughty mood,
And all the party stood abounding stood, Though well it knew.

The white in frost and snow, Half-clad, she stood upon whose maiden breath.
He plied her for Love's supreme In joy or woe.

A RUSSIAN GHOST STORY.

One of the Old Little Tales That Please the Philadelphians.

"You had much better stay all night.
My house is old and plain, but there is plenty of room in it, a whole wing, in fact, is all plain, and it is furnished, but nothing else. What do you prefer?"

The host, a bachelor of forty, turned with this question to a young woman sitting near him, holding in her hand a glass of cherry brandy. "Ah, colonel, what you are, are with your strength, and a decidedly military air, before whom on the table stood a half-filled glass of wine. The hour was eleven at night, the little party had just finished a late supper.

"Yes! I should like to stay. I really feel too late to take the trouble to go home." She took a sip from her glass; "but I can only speak for myself, I cannot speak for the others."

"And yet you contrived to swallow a whole glass of something tolerably strong," said her husband.

"Is that meant for a joke?"

"Not at all! Drink my health as much as you please; only recollect that it is time to go home."

"But why do you go home at all, Mikailitch?" asked the host; "why not stay all night?"

"I must be at home to-morrow. I have business in town and shall be obliged to catch the 9.30 train in the morning, and the station from here to the station is much longer than from here to home. I spoke a purple light shone into the room, rendering visible through the glass doors the white columns of the balcony outside."

"There is a storm coming," he himself determined.

"But I don't say that," ejaculated the lady; "it was clear when I looked out before supper, and I am sure there is no thunder."

"You will soon hear it, and look how black the sky is now."

"I am yes, we shall have a storm."

"It is to-morrow, then, that the male Mikailitch. One would think a troop of horses were galloping over the balcony bridge close by."

"It is coming up very fast," said Sergei, the host, who stood at the balcony door.

"Come away," exclaimed Madame Mikailitch, "it is time to go home."

"I will go, but the window and the wind and that balcony door."

"Are you afraid of lightning?"

"Not afraid, exactly, but when a storm is over, it is not pleasant, by any means."

"Much better say openly that you are afraid," remarked her husband, with a smile.

"I think it will be impossible for us to go home to-night. Our carriage is an open one, and the horses might take fright, too. I accept your invitation, Mr. Sergei; it is, we hope, the last time we shall be at the balcony door."

"Come away," exclaimed Madame
Mikailitch, "it is time to go home."

"I will go, but the window and the

"Not afraid, exactly, but when a storm

HE AND SHE

He sat in Honor's seat,
And rapturous ladies gazed into his eyes She stood with her breath the wintry skies In snow and silent.

He spoke of Faith's decay,
She sighed because he spoke so true, Her face in hands frost-numbed and bleeding feet.

In church, in court, and street, Men bowed and ladies smiled wherever he She stole through life by shame and humor
With bleeding feet.

Upon his wedding day She with burning eyes that fail would had heard the throb of treads, the music's sweep.

The bride, so pale and true,
He took his bride in his hands, and all the palty world applauded Though it knew it.

The wife in frost and snow, Isle-fled, she stood upon her breast,
He plucked his faith for Love's supremest test.

A RUSSIAN GHOST STORY.

of the Old Little Tales That Please Russian Readers.

annaled for the Philadelphian Tales.
"You had much better stay all night, your house is old and plain, but there is a lot of room in it, a whole wing, in it, for my guests, old fashioned, but inhabited. What do you say?" he host, a bachelor of forty, turned it over, he had a son, a young woman sister, him, holding in his hand a cup of cherry brandy, upon her hand was leaning back in an armchair, watching the smoke from his cigar while on the table stood a small glass of wine. The young man, a little party had finished a late supper.

He said, "I should like to stay, I really do, but you contrived to swallow a glass of something tolerably bad."

He said, "I drink my health as much as you please, only recollect that it is time to go home."

"But why do you go home at all, Mikailitch?" asked the host; "why not stay all morning?"

"I must be at home to-morrow. I have
travel a great deal in the city, and the distance from home to the station is much greater than from my house." As he spoke, a purple light shone into the room, passing through the glass cup, and the columns of the balcony outside.

"There is no man coming," he exclaimed in a soft neighbor, crossing himself definitely.

"Oh, don't say that," ejaculated the host, "it was clear when I looked out of my window, and I am sure there is no one."

"'Tis well, I will go, but I will have a sharp wind, we shall have a storm."

It was the thunder made one would think a troupe of horsemen were galloping over the golden hills.

"I am coming up very fast," said Sergei, the host, who stood at the balcony on the side.

"Come away," exclaimed Madame Mikailitch; "come away, do. Shut the window and that balcony door."

"I am afraid of lightning,"
"Not afraid, but when a storm very near it is not pleasant, by any means."

afraid," remarked his husband, with a smile.

arranged to go in the morning, and after much effort, he succeeded in opening the door, and the shysters being there, I am afraid it is not possible for us to go home to-night."

HOME AND COUNTY NEWS.

Baked.

Andrew Manuel, an old and well known settler of this section of the County, buried a six year old son yesterday from the Catholic church in this village. The little fellow has been sick some time with dropsy which baffled the skill of his physicians.

The family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their affliction.

Passes at Chaska Sunday night, Aug 28th, 1882, in memory of George and Gustava Faber.

We have been called upon to record the death of some one so often that we find it a sad task and can but extend our heartfelt sympathy to the afflicted family in their bereavement. The funeral last Tuesday morning, from the Catholic Church in this village, was largely attended.

Contrary to expectation the monthly fair last Saturday was largely attended by farmers from the County.
Considerable Stock changed hands and trading in "horse flesh" was a prominent feature of the day's attractions. The next fair will be a rouser.

NOTICE.

As soon as the threshing season is over, say about the latter part of the month of September, we will send out our collecting agent, William Moeschler, and hope our friends will make prompt payments as we must have what is due on subscription in order to meet our bills.

Mouthly Fair.

The first setting of the season was made by Klob and Goetz.
Their outfit is entirely new consisting of a Case improved agitator and a new model Gaar Scott, locomotive engine with self steering attachment.

Ketteltoll will give you five large bars of soap for a quarter.

Butterfield and Schrimpf started up their engine Wednesday. It is an old stand by, has made its record, and owners intend to continue doing the same good work that has thus far given it so good a reputation.

A new blacksmith is the last arrival, a present from Mrs. Hoermann to her good man, John.

Eight pounds of good coffee for one dollar at Ketteltoll.

Our genial host of the City Hotel, Mr Fred Doelz, has now become used to the harness and wears it becomingly. Any one who has known Mrs D for the last 20 years needs not to be informed that the cuisine is perfection. Mr D. has added a $300 pool table to his many attractions and the "boys" appreciate it muchly.

Four pounds starch for a quarter at Ketteltoll.

Dr Fred Vogler, our veterinary surgeon is busy night and day attending to the numerous sick horses in this and adjoining counties. By the way Mr V. has one of the finest prescription Drug Store in the west.

It is altogether too good in Y. A. at present. The new band with their shining new instruments, under the efficient leadership of Mr Chas Hobart are with highly practice fast moving out from the ranks of amateurs into those of the professionals.
We expect from the amount of energy perseverance and vim manifested, soon to have the best band in the county.

Dr. Lewis Improving.

The many friends of Dr. M. H.
Lewis, not only of this county but throughout the State, will be pleased to learn that he is slowly but surely recovering, and will probably be able to be up and about next week.

He was very sick last Thursday and until Sunday his recovery was considered somewhat doubtful.

Our genial County Treasurer, Peter Weeg, was unusually elated last Thursday, and resolved so the arrival of a nine pound daughter in his family. He was warmly congratulated by his friends.

Our "boss" boot & shoe maker, Gerhard Schrör, was furnishing the "boys" with cigars
